10 “More Fun” Things To Do In The Philippines

The Philippines being an archipelago, offers countless of destinations to see, adventures to experience and activities to do. The country is blessed with a rich environment — lush forests, tropical islands, white sand beaches, lakes, rivers, mountains — and friendly, artistic and hardworking people who are always happy to welcome visitors and friends. When you come for a visit, be sure to stay for a long time so that you can enjoy the different exciting experiences that the country has in store for you. Here is a list of ten things to do in the Philippines to help you plan and maximize your stay. Do all ten for a unique, complete travel experience; and a guaranteed and unforgettable vacation.

(1) SEE some sights

There are a lot to see in the Philippines. The country is blessed with a beautiful environment and skilful people whose talented hands created some of the most magnificent man — made structures in the world.

Witness the UNESCO World Heritage Sites: Banaue Rice Terraces; the well preserved Spanish - style architecture in the historic town of Vigan, Ilocos Sur; the Baroque - style and centuries — old Churches: the San Agustin Church in Paoay, Ilocos Norte, the Nuestra Senora de la Asuncion Church in Santa Maria, Ilocos Sur, San Agustin Church in Intramuros, Manila, and the Santo Tomas de Villanueva Church in Miag-ao, Iloilo.

Take photos of the smallest active volcano in the world Taal Volcano in Batangas; the perfectly coned - shaped volcano, Mt. Mayon in Legazpi, Albay; the unique limestone formation that is called the Chocolate Hills in Bohol. Marvel at the endemic Philippine flora and fauna: the Tamaraw, Tarsier, and Philippine Eagle to name a few.

(2) GO on a beach holiday

The Philippines is a tropical country with one of the longest coastlines in Asia at 36,289 kilometres. It has numerous beaches most with fine powdery white sand and clean, clear and cool blue waters. Be sure to bask in the warm tropical sun and get the perfect tan that will be the envy of your friends back home. Top Philippine beach locations: Boracay Island, Aklan; El Nido, Palawan; Camiguin Island; Pagudpud, Ilocos Norte; Puerto Galera, Mindoro; Nasugbu and Lian in Batangas; and Ternate in Cavite.

More Fun" Things To Do In The Philippines

 Philippine Tourism Office - SF
447 Sutter Street, Ste. 507
San Francisco, CA 94108
Tel No. 415.956.4060
Fax No. 415.956.2093
pdots@aol.com
www.itsmorefuninthephilippines.us.com
(3) DIVE in Asia’s best reefs

The Philippines is located in the ‘center of the center’ of marine biodiversity. If you are a diving enthusiast — amateur or professional, or someone who is looking for an underwater experience of a lifetime, then you must go to the Philippines. This archipelagic nation has the highest density of coral species and marine life in the world; it is home to a diverse species of aquatic resources. Amateur divers can train and get their licenses at any of the world-class dive centers located in diving spots like Anilao, Puerto Galera and Boracay. Once done with training, they can dive side-by-side with the best certified dive professionals in the country. The must-see diving spots among others are the UNESCO World Heritage Site Tubbataha Reef and the location of some of the best wreck dive sites in the world - Coron, both in Palawan; Verde Island in Mindoro Oriental; Apo Reef National Park in Mindoro Occidental, the largest atoll-like reef in the Philippines with 285 species of fish and 197 species of corals. The Philippines is located in the ‘center of the center’ of marine biodiversity. If you are a diving enthusiast — amateur or professional, or someone who is looking for an underwater experience of a lifetime, then you must go to the Philippines. This archipelagic nation has the highest density of coral species and marine life in the world; it is home to a diverse species of aquatic resources. Amateur divers can train and get their licenses at any of the world-class dive centers located in diving spots like Anilao, Puerto Galera and Boracay. Once done with training, they can dive side-by-side with the best certified dive professionals in the country. The must-see diving spots among others are the UNESCO World Heritage Site Tubbataha Reef and the location of some of the best wreck dive sites in the world - Coron, both in Palawan; Verde Island in Mindoro Oriental; Apo Reef National Park in Mindoro Occidental, the largest atoll-like reef in the Philippines with 285 species of fish and 197 species of corals.

(4) ENGAGE in your favorite outdoor sport or activity

The Philippines offers a wide variety of sports adventures. Different locations cater to a specific activity: play a few rounds of golf in world-class golf courses designed by PGA Champions; snorkel and interact with the “gentle giants” - the whale sharks in Donsol, Sorsogon; surf in Siargao Island, Surigao del Norte, Baler, Aurora, and Daet, Camarines Sur; climb the country’s highest peak at 9,689 feet in Mt. Apo in Davao City, Davao; trek Mt. Pinatubo or explore Callao caves in Tuguegarao, in Cagayan; go white river rafting in the Cagayan de Oro River or go kayaking at the St. Paul Underground River Cave in Palawan; windsurf in Lake Caliraya or in Taal Lake, and wakeboard in Pili, Camarines Sur. Whatever suits your adventurous spirit, the Philippines will surely have it!

(5) RELAX in a spa or have a traditional massage

There is nothing more relaxing than enjoying the traditional Filipino ‘healing’ massage or touch therapy called Hilot. The soothing touch of this massage relaxes and heals tired muscles and aching joints. Try this and other spa treatments at the Nurture Spa in Tagaytay, Mandala Spa in Boracay, Sanctuario Spa in Manila, Chi Spa Village in Shangri-La Mactan Hotel and Resort in Cebu, and at The Farm at San Benito in Batangas. There are health and wellness centers all over the country at very affordable rates.
(6) FEAST on unique culinary specialties

Be ready to put on a few extra pounds as you satisfy your cravings by indulging in a Filipino feast. Dishes to try: Lechon, spit-roast whole pig served with liver sauce; Adobo, pork, chicken or a combination of both, marinated in vinegar, soy sauce and garlic and stewed until tender; Kare-kare, meat and vegetables cooked with peanut sauce served with shrimp paste; Sinigang, pork, or seafood in tamarind soup; or the freshest seafoods - fish, squid, shrimp, lobsters that are all grilled to perfection. The more adventurous should try Balut or boiled duck eggs containing a partially formed embryo, and Dinuguan, the pork blood stew eaten with steamed rice or Puto (rice cakes). For the not-so-adventurous, there are restaurants offering various cuisine from American to Chinese, from Indian to Greek, from Japanese to French. These facilities range from casual to fine dining.

(7) SHOPPING in world class malls and bargain centers

Shopping in the Philippines is an experience both in bargain and variety. Most shopping places or Malls in Manila, Makati, Cebu and Davao virtually have everything that you will need—from designer western brands to items specifically designed for the tourist market. Around the country, specifically in city centers, Tiangges or the Filipino version of flea markets abound offering quality items at bargain prices. In Manila shop at the third largest mall in the world Mall of Asia, Balikbayan Handicrafts, Tutuban Center Mall and at the San Andres Market (for fresh fruits and other produce). In Makati and in its surrounding areas, shop at Greenbelt, Glorietta, Greenhills Shopping Center, SM Megamall, Shangri-La Mall and at Tiendecitas. In Cebu, check out the Ayala Center, the Gaisano Malls, Robinson's Place, SM City; and for native delicacies, fresh produce and fresh and dried seafood, go to the Carbon and Taboan Markets. In Davao, shop at Aldevinco Shopping Center (for fabrics, batik, and carvings) Victoria Plaza, Gaisano Mall and at the New City Commercial Center Department Store. An experience not to be missed in flea market - shopping in the Philippines is the “bargaining” where shoppers can buy items with big discounts, usually obtained by using charm and skills.

“The SM Mall of Asia is the third most largest shopping mall in the world with an IMAX Theater screen that is 8-stories high.”

(8) WATCH a performance of world-class artists

The Philippines is home to a number of world-class artists. Occasionally, the Cultural Center of the Philippines show performances by the Ballet Philippines, the Philippine Madrigal Singers, and the Bayanihan Dance Troupe. World-renowned artists Lea Salonga and Cecile Licad; from time to time, give performances in big concert halls in Manila. The Center of Arts in San Antonio (CASA) in San Miguel, Zambales features violinist Alfonso “Coke” Bolipata and his Pundaquit talents. Other groups that showcase the Filipino performing talents are Repertory Philippines, the Loboc Children’s Choir, and the Amazing Philippines Theatre.

In the Visual Arts, works of world-class Filipino masters Juan Luna, Felix Resurrection Hidalgo and Fabian de la Rosa, National Artists Fernando Amorsolo, Carlos Francisco, Victor Edades, Vicente Manansala, other Philippine painting greats and contemporary visual artists can be viewed at the Philippine National Museum. The Metropolitan Museum of Manila, the Ayala Museum, and in some galleries and University museums around Metro Manila will likewise showcase fine art. All around the country in simple stages, live bands and professional singers perform in clubs and music halls showcasing Filipino talents.
There is an abundance of places to go to and enjoy a night out in the Philippines. Every major city of the country has a number of nightlife activity hubs with restaurants, cafes, bars, clubs and karaoke bars all promising a good time of fun and entertainment.

In the country’s financial district Makati, there is the Greenbelt, Glorietta, The Fort, Jupiter St. and J. P. Rizal Street. In the city’s capital, Manila, nightlife is diverse. There is something for everybody in Malate, and in the newly revitalized Roxas Boulevard and in the Baywalk. Quezon City is a popular destination of locals as the club prices are a little lower than those in Makati. Most clubs are close to each other so common to bar hopping. Try the establishments along Timog & Tomas Morato Avenues and Quezon Boulevard, and in Eastwood City in Libis. Outside of Metro Manila, there are likewise a number of popular places to go to.

The nightlife of Subic in the province of Zambales, is known all over the world because of its history as a former rest and recreation center of the US Navy. The city is still teeming with nightlife activities as the Subic Free Trade Port is home to a lot of expatriates from other foreign countries as well and it is now a major tourism hub flowing with activities for recreation, sports, and heritage. Check out Subic International Hotel and the Magsaysay Blvd. Angeles City in Pampanga, formerly the home of the US Air Force in the Pacific, is also known for its Angeles City nightlife stayed almost the same as a lot of retired US and Australian citizens decided to make Angeles City their second home. The former Clark Air Force Base is now home to the annual International Hot Air Balloon Festival.

The central Philippine city of Cebu is a popular destination among tourists because its nightlife is at par if not better than in Metro-Manila. Big development companies have opened up operations in the city and major club chain operators have set up their presence. Be sure to go to Ayala Mall and in the different establishments that abound Osmenta Blvd. The ultimate island-nightlife location in the Philippines is Boracay Island in the province of Aklan. The island is known for its carefree attitude, and the island is home to a lot of clubs and bars on the beach.

Philippine culture is best experienced in events and activities that highlight what Filipinos are passionate about - faith, love for country, family, culture, history, and celebrations.

Filipinos love to celebrate, and there is no better way of celebrating than by having festivals: the Sinulog in Cebu City and Ati-athian in Kalibo, Aklan, every January, are the biggest events that commemorate the feast of Santo Nino with a week-long street party that highlights during the feast of the patron saint.

Another popular festival is the Pahiyas in Lucban, Quezon, on May 15. It is held to celebrate the year’s bountiful harvest as well as the celebration of the feast of San Isidro Labrador. Witness the colourful display of kipings (rice crisps) and other thanksgiving offerings hung in the houses that line the street where the procession of the image of the patron saint passes by. Giant papier-mâché effigies join the parade to add to the spectacle of a celebration. The Masskara Festival in Bacolod City, in October, coinciding with the city’s charter day celebration, is a festival that features carnivals, fairs and a mardi gras-style parade by costumed and masked street dancers.

There are as many festivals as there are towns in the Philippines and when you attend and enjoy a Filipino tradition and celebration and become closer to understanding the culture of the people.

Other unique Philippine cultural events and activities include the cultural spectacle Santacruzan - a May-time procession of beautiful Philippine maidens staged as a re-enactment of St. Helen’s quest for the Holy Cross. The awesome display of Filipino religiosity in the frenzied Black Nazarene procession during the Quiapo fiesta every January 9 in Manila is not for the faint of heart. The Holy Week rituals in San Fernando, Pampanga is one living proof of the Filipino’s deep Catholic roots. The displays (giant Christmas lanterns), rituals (dawn masses) and traditions (noche buena feasts) marks the Filipinos’ celebration of Christmas (longest in the world).